

This is obviously a bad idea to have fewer companies delivering information to the public.
It will not only result in censored news, but will cultivate lower wages across the media industry.